

The role of Investigation and Diagnosis in Conservation of Artworks and Archival Materials

Groups of artworks or archival materials in diverse types of collections (museums, archives) are required to maintain. The similar deterioration processes of similar materials, and the storing conditions need to be monitored to reveal the potential problems and to preserve the original materials and specific data. The thorough investigation is needed to find the most suitable practical solutions in conservation.

Brigitta Maria Kürtösi DLA, Katalin Orosz DLA